

Reflection Paper

Reflecting on my experience in the program, I am filled with a sense of gratitude for the invaluable skills and knowledge that I have gained. One of the program's greatest strengths was the PRACPREP, which proved incredibly useful for job interviews and job hunting. Through this program, I acquired the necessary tools to present myself professionally and excel in job interviews, giving me a competitive edge in the job market. Additionally, the program equipped me with the skills and knowledge to be an asset in any workplace, preparing me well for the challenges and demands of the professional world. Furthermore, the program also assisted me in finding the right company that would best utilize my set of skills and strengths, helping me to match my aspirations with the right career path.

However, despite the program's many strengths, I also encountered some weaknesses during my time in the program. One of the biggest challenges was the fact that most of the accredited companies did not qualify for the OJT requirements, as they required purely remote work. This presented a hurdle for me as I was hoping to gain practical experience in a physical workplace. Additionally, most of the accredited companies were not hiring during the ISP practicum, which limited the opportunities available for practical experience. Despite these challenges, I remained committed to making the most out of my experience.

One particular subject that proved to be incredibly valuable during the ISP curriculum was teamwork and problem-solving. This skillset was put to the test during my internship, where I encountered numerous challenges that required effective communication and collaboration with my team. Through this experience, I learned the importance of working well with others, giving constructive feedback, and inspiring people to do their best. I also learned the importance of being flexible in my thinking and operating style, having patience when dealing with others, and caring about the project outcome.

As a result of this experience, I was able to develop several skills that have proven to be invaluable in my personal and professional life. These skills include teamwork, problem solving, constructive feedback, encouraging and inspiring people, and humor. Furthermore, I also learned to be aware that some team members are not as capable as I am, which helped me to become a better collaborator and mentor for my co-interns.

Overall, I am extremely proud of the tasks and works that I completed during my time in the company. This experience has allowed me to grow both professionally and personally, and I am grateful for the opportunity to have learned and developed these valuable skills. Moving forward, I am confident that the skills and knowledge that I have acquired will enable me to achieve great things in my career and make a positive impact in the workplace.
